

NCBL History

I found this in the 1992 NCBL yearbook, I believe it was written by Jim Dean with some updates included.

In trying to research the early history of the League, I have relied on two sources. One source is the team magazine published annually by the Dukes, written by first League President John Robertson and his brother Mike. I have also used memories of the original SunDevils, who figure prominently in the early years of the League. The two sources do not agree on the exact start date for the League for a reason I find quite humorous: One source says they won the first league championship in 1980, and the other claims that they won it in 1981. In any case, both sources agree that 1982 was the first "official" year of the Ottawa Recreational Baseball League.

For the men who became the SunDevils, Sunday summer mornings from the mid to late 70's was a time for pick-up baseball. The pick-up baseball became a little more organized in 1980, having formed 3 teams, with 4 teams in 1981. So after two years of loosely organized Sunday morning baseball, the Ottawa Recreational Baseball League (O.R.B.L) was "officially" formed by 6 teams in 1982. 1982 was the first year of paid umpires (weekend games only).

The O.R.B.L. based their constitution on that of the Senior Interprovincial Baseball League (S.I.B.L). Ironically, the S.I.B.L. would start to wither as the O.R.B.L flourished, and in 1990, the SIBL disbanded and the 5 remaining teams (Nepean Brewers, PMA Panthers, Ottawa Rangers, Gloucester Giants, Goldform Jewellers Cougars ) joined the ORBL. (which had been renamed the Ottawa Baseball League in 1987) to form today's National Capital Baseball League.

The league has been fortunate that many good people have volunteered their time and efforts. These include the many League Presidents/Commissioners to date : John Robertson (1982-1986), Bruce Stockfish (1987-1988), Jim Dean (1989-1993), Shane Alexander. In 1996, we had 3 co-presidents Frank Leal, Geoff Parkins, Pino Scaramozzino. In 1997, Frank Leal and Geoff Parkins were co presidents, John Kohli (1998-2002), and Bill Beelen (2003-present). Mr. Robertson, it seems, has been part of the League forever. He was invited to the Sunday morning pick-up games with the future SunDevils in 1977. Other key people are the umpires. The NCBL Wallace, Jordan, and Nicholas divisions were all named for umpires (Gerry Wallace, John Jordan, and Marcel Nicholas) who contributed so much to the growth of the League.

1990 was a year of many changes : the SIBL disbanded and its 5 teams were accepted into the OBL; The Ottawa-Nepean Canadians "A" team was accepted into the league; A third division was added; a recreational league was created to play separately from the more competitive league, and the league was renamed the National Capital Baseball League. The new recreational league would consist of one division, named the Robertson Division after past-president and ORBL founder John Robertson, who actively pushed for the creation of this division. Subsequently, in 1992 a fifth division, the Yanus division, was created also for the recreational league, and is named after Bob Yanus who has played in the league since that first official year, 1982 and still played into the 90's today, despite pre-dating the dirt on our infields.

Here, then, is a year-by-year history of the NCBL from 1977 - 1998

Prior to 1980

July 1977 :

Future ORBL Commissioner John Robertson joins a pickup game organized by a group which would later go on to form the SunDevils. John asks to play goal.

August 1979 :

Decision to form league made after one seven inning game consumes eight hours and twenty minutes, nine hundred pitches, and several dozen bottles of Aspirin.

---

1980

June :

Three team league begins play with the following teams:

- Stoney Mondays (later the SunDevils)
- Central Mortgage and Housing (aka Bureaucrats)
- Blacks (later the Dukes)

August :

(Dukes version) League disbands as the Central Mortgage and Housing team think they are at work and fall asleep during a game.

(Sundevils version) The CMHC team drifted off, forcing the Stoney Sundays and the Blacks to finish an abbreviated schedule. However, they did indeed finish the season, culminating in the Stoney Sundays' clobbering of the Blacks in the championship match. This would be the Sundevils' last championship until 1990, and so they count this as the first League Championship.

---

1981

May :

League reformed with 4 teams and begins play:

- Stoney Mondays (later the SunDevils)
- Blacks (later the Dukes)
- D.H. (sometimes called Ben Diaz and the Venezuelans)
- D.L. (later the Sweat Sox)

August :

D.H. drops out of the league as entire team leaves for South America

October : Blacks win first (?) League championship as final series called on account of snow.

1991

News Items:

One week after the league-end banquet, two young players from the Kanata Jr. Selects were killed in a car accident. Greg MacKay, winner of the 1991 Ron Quenel award and 1989 Batting Champion, and Blair MacKenzie, 1991 Nicholas Division MVP, were passengers in a van that ran off the highway late one night while coming home from Montreal.

The league had relatively few incidents this year. The only one of note was a large bench-clearing brawl between the Kanata Sr. Selects and Al's Diner Pirates, with involvement out of the stands by the Ralph's Huddle Hawks.
